

THREE OFFICES LEFT OPEN BY STUMP'S DEATH

Health Commissioner, School Board and Dem. Presidency
To Be Filled.

EXPECT ACTION

Medics Favor Combining City, County Health Jobs.

The untimely death of Dr. Addison L. Stump on the night of Oct. 19 at his home in Derby leaves three important positions within county circles unfilled. At the time of his death Dr. Stump was county health commissioner, a member of the county board of education and president of the Democratic Central committee.

All three of these positions must be filled. Prosecuting Attorney Emmett L. Crist, as legal advisor to the county boards, both of health and education, has reported that in order to name a successor to Dr. Stump as health commissioner it is necessary for the Board to convene and by a majority vote name a licensed physician. Although the clause doesn't state that the man must be from the same county it is expected that the man chosen to succeed Dr. Stump will be a county physician.

EXPECT ACTION
According to Charles Heffner, R. F. D. 4, this city, president of the county board of education, no action has yet been taken but it is expected a special meeting will be called soon to name a man to succeed Dr. Stump on the county school board. It is understood that the board of education may name a successor by a majority vote of that group.

C. A. Leist, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, announced Tuesday that a successor to Dr. Stump as president of the central committee is up to the central committee. This group, in order to elect a successor, must meet and name one of its members as the president, according to Mr. Leist.

With no present county health commissioner, several of the physicians from this city, members of the county medical board, have expressed themselves as being highly in favor of combining the offices of county health commissioner and city health commissioner and making the position a full time for one person. A step must be taken sooner or later in this way in order to cover the county and city more closely as far as follow-up work in fighting disease is concerned.

Reports from the state health departments show that health conditions in Circleville are not as they should be, especially from the follow-up angle and these medical men, who have been advocating a combined office for the city-county health department, are more than ever in favor of the move.

GANG LEADERS REPORTED HELD

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 28.—The notorious Boggs brothers, alleged members of the terrorizing Bowman-Boggs bandit gang, which has been suspected of nearly 40 robberies in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky within the past few months, were held by Cincinnati police today.

They gave their names as James W. Boggs and John C. Boggs, of Parkersburg, W. Va. They were identified yesterday by two girl clerks at the Peoples' Bank & Trust Company here as the bandit pair which held up and robbed the bank two months ago and escaped with $1,600.

Members of the gang are wanted in several southern Ohio cities for robberies, holdups and attacks.

AID EMPLOYMENT BUILDING SEWER

ASHLAND, O., Oct. 28.—As a means of relieving unemployment here this winter, city council today considered building a mile of storm sewer. Plans call for practically all work to be done by labor with little machinery used.

The unemployment situation here is not serious. Heavy demands have been made on the Community chest, but funds collected nearly a year ago have not been exhausted. County road-building, which will continue as long as weather permits, has been taking care of larger number of laborers. A recent survey showed local industries running 75 percent normal with 50 percent reporting business good and the other "fair."

Many local factories have been carrying more men than actually needed in order to relieve unemployment.

Two bandits, one posing as a telegraph messenger to gain admittance, lotted the safe of M. Rosenthal and Sons in a shop near Fifth street.

Charles F. Lewis, porter, told police the bandits pressed a gun against his back and forced him to telephone his employer and obtain the combination to the safe. Lewis said he opened the store today when a telegraph messenger gained entrance and said "there's an important message for your boss." "My pal will be here in a minute. Don't move."

A second man appeared and both bandits ordered him to open the safe.

35 KILLED IN REVOLT

Street Fighting in Rio De Janeiro Serious During Counter Skirmish.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 28.—Thirty-five persons were killed and 120 were wounded in the street fighting in Rio De Janeiro which resulted from yesterday's attempted counter-revolution, according to private radio-telephone advices from the Brazilian capital today.

These figures constituted the first authentic estimate of the casualties received here. The parties telephoning said the counter-revolution was staged by adherents of the former Washington Luis regime rather than by Communist agitators.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—Determined to forestall any further outbreaks of counter-revolutionary violence, the military junta governing Brazil threatened "ferocious treatment" to any malcontents who choose to "behave like wild animals."

Driven to the necessity of a new show of strength early in its career, the new government was held to have demonstrated its popularity with the great mass of the people when an incipient counter-insurrection was put down with approximately 100 casualties yesterday.

Government troops called out to combat the revolt were aided by thousands of citizens, voluntarily took up arms against the counter-revolutionists.

Reports as to the actual number of casualties differed, and the toll of dead ranged from four to 35. Intense excitement reigned throughout the city during the two hours the revolt was in progress.

Commission Asks Women To Get Behind Relief Plan

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of President Hoover's emergency committee on employment, today called on the women of America to get behind the president's plan to relieve the unemployment situation in the same manner as they had done during the great war when they put over the Hoover food conservation plan.

Colonel Woods addressed a gathering of 1,000 women representing Women's clubs in six states.

"It was wartime then," said Colonel Woods, referring to the conservation campaign, "and it is wartime now. The only difference is that now the enemy is human suffering."

"The enemy is attacking our own people. The women of America should do all they can to contribute to the quickening of the industrial pulse so that normal conditions can be restored in the country."

White, Bulkley Lead Group Of Speakers Here

Democratic Leaders Near End of Hottest Campaign In Ohio History.

TIME IS 1:30

Cox and Cooper Partake In Battle of Words in Talks.

George White, Marietta, Democratic candidate for governor, Robert J. Bulkley, candidate for the U. S. Senate and James H. Newman, candidate for state treasurer, will be the principal speakers at a mammoth Democratic rally to be held in Memorial Hall here Thursday at 1:30 p. m. Plans for the meeting, which promises to be one of the largest ever held here, are in the hands of C. A. Leist, county Democratic chairman.

The addresses of the three men in this city will just about wind-up the hottest fight for offices staged in this district for many years.

BY C. H. HADDOX

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Every available politician in the state was called into action today as campaign leaders in Ohio's bitter political battle carried their fight down the home stretch in a whirlwind finish.

COX IS ACTIVE

With former Governor James N. Cox attacking the new tariff and the Cooper administration; Governor Myers V. Cooper combatting assaults upon what he claims as achievements of his regime, and with George White, Democratic gubernatorial nominee from Marietta, maintaining a steady fire upon the present state administration, oratorical activities are reaching the pinnacle of intensity in the Ohio political battle.

There are 1,184,929 votes in Ohio's registration cities to be garnered and both sides, although each appears confident of a majority, are making a strong last bid.

The number of voters in Ohio's registration cities is shown by official records on file with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown.

The figures are the first compiled in the Buckeye state. State election experts estimate that 1,192,699 voters registered in Ohio last year. Two years ago the total registration was even larger, it is believed.

Endorsing the candidacy of Robert J. Bulkley, Democratic nominee for United States senator on a "wet" platform, Cox said that Bulkley "caught the public imagination at once and the tide running in his favor is one of the most dramatic political episodes in our history."

COOPER REPLIES

Governor Cooper not only recounted the achievement of his administration but replied to Democratic attacks during an address at Youngstown Monday night.

Governor Cooper asserted that the Democratic "caravan of calamity," with no plan, or program and "with only a cry of bewailment to offer," cannot accomplish anything in Ohio.

He said that if state expenditures were higher last year, it was "because we paid Democratic debts." Replying to the charge that welfare institutions have been neglected, Cooper declared: "We will have under way, or completed, facilities to take care of more persons in welfare institutions than were provided for during the last 10 years."

Claiming that "press agents" are not needed to stimulate interest in Ohio's outdoor life, George White, Democratic nominee for governor, in an address at Portsmouth Monday night, said he favored "intelligent, non-political conservation" in accord with the aims of the sportsmen.

HITS JOBBOLDERS

White said that the state division of conservation is "topheavy with jobholders." Referring to a so-called publicity bureau, with a chief and five assistants, White said: "We certainly will not need them in my administration as political propagandists." He said he would delegate to the state conservation council "the authority sought for it by the League of Ohio Sportsmen, the Isaac Walton League and the legislature."

KING WINTER NEARER OHIO

Alexander, State Meteorologist, Predicts This Winter to Be One of Coldest.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Old King winter is about to wrap his snowy cloak about the Buckeye state, according to predictions at the United States Bureau here, and Ohioans are probably in for one of the coldest winters in recent years. The extremely cold season is due, Weatherman William H. Alexander said, according to the law of averages.

After sweltering through the hottest summer in 50 years, Ohio and the rest of the United States are now due for one of the coldest winters. This will last for several seasons. And colder winters are in store for the near future, the weatherman said.

The weatherman stated that weather seems to run in cycles of three to five years. During the past 10 years there has been the least snowfall in Ohio than at any corresponding time previous, constituting an unusually long cycle.

Because of the recent drought, rainfall in Ohio and vicinity has fallen far below the average. The climax of the warm cycle was probably reached during the drought, Alexander said.

"I have no basis for the prediction of cold weather, except the general law of averages, and I am prepared for a very marked change of weather," the meteorologist declared.

Trained Crews Summoned To Aid in Recovery of Bodies

BULLETIN

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 28.—All hope for the rescue of twenty nine miners entombed by an explosion in the lower levels of the Wheatley No. 4 coal mine of the Samples Coal company was virtually abandoned at 8:30 a. m., today when the rescuers encountered black damp at the fifteenth level of the mine.

The men are entombed in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth levels, 3,600 feet from the mouth of the mine.

McALESTER, Okla., 28.—Twenty-nine miners were trapped in the lower levels of the Wheatley No. 4 coal mine of the Samples Coal by an explosion which occurred near the mouth of the mine last night. One man, William Donley, was killed by the blast.

At 7:15 a. m., today rescue crews had worked their way through the debris to the tenth bed of the mine. The men are trapped in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth beds, about 3,600 feet from the mouth of the mine, and rescue workers estimated it would be noon before they would reach the entombed miners.

The mouth of the mine was blocked by debris from the blast and rescue workers were delayed several hours in entering the mine. The explosion was one of the most violent on record in this district and was plainly heard here, two miles from the scene of the blast in N. McAlester.

The fate of the entombed men was unknown this morning and experts could not say whether or not there was a chance of the men being alive. The cause of the explosion is a mystery.

The entombed miners were members of a crew which went on duty at 7 o'clock last night and they had been at work several hours when the explosion occurred.

A group of American Legion members who were attending a relief committee meeting were among the first at the scene and they took immediate charge outside the mine and held back the crowds and relatives of the entombed miners.

The mine is located in North McAlester on the state penitentiary farm a short distance from the prison. It has eighteen levels and is a sloping mine extending between 3,000 and 4,000 feet from the mouth of the mine.

Trained rescue crews of miners were called into action to take charge of the work inside the mine.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A serious uprising of 2,000 Aborigines in Taichu, an inaccessible district of Formosa, was reported in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokyo today.

A punitive expedition is enroute to the troubled area, the message added.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 28.—Charles Hamilton, 30, of Canton, O., who was sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary on May 21, 1926, on charges of first degree murder, was accidentally electrocuted at the prison today.

35 KILLED IN REVOLT

Street Fighting in Rio De Janeiro Serious During Counter Skirmish.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 28.—Thirty-five persons were killed and 120 were wounded in the street fighting in Rio De Janeiro which resulted from yesterday's attempted counter-revolution, according to private radio-telephone advices from the Brazilian capital today.

These figures constituted the first authentic estimate of the casualties received here. The parties telephoning said the counter-revolution was staged by adherents of the former Washington Luis regime rather than by Communist agitators.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—Decried to forestall any further outbreaks of counter-revolutionary violence, the military junta governing Brazil threatened "ferocious treatment" to any malcontents who choose to "behave like wild animals."

Driven to the necessity of a new show of strength early in its career, the new government was held to have demonstrated its popularity with the great mass of the people when an incipient counter-insurrection was put down with approximately 100 casualties yesterday.

Government troops called out to combat the revolt were aided by thousands of citizens, voluntarily took up arms against the counter-revolutionists.

Reports as to the actual number of casualties differed, and the toll of dead ranged from four to 35. Intense excitement reigned throughout the city during the two hours the revolt was in progress.

Severe storms are sweeping the area through which the Czar Ferdinand is passing, but there are no doubts whatever as to the vessel's seaworthiness.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 28.—Faithful to the last, a brown mongrel dog was dead here today because he had refused to allow anyone to touch the body of his master, Samuel Blue, 53, who had been shot and killed following a quarrel with a former sweetheart.

White, Bulkley Lead Group Of Speakers Here

Democratic Leaders Near End of Hottest Campaign In Ohio History.

TIME IS 1:30

Cox and Cooper Partake In Battle of Words in Talks.

George White, Marietta, Democratic candidate for governor, Robert J. Bulkley, candidate for the U. S. Senate and James H. Newman, candidate for state treasurer, will be the principal speakers at a mammoth Democratic rally to be held in Memorial Hall here Thursday at 1:30 p. m. Plans for the meeting, which promises to be one of the largest ever held here, are in the hands of C. A. Leist, county Democratic chairman.

The addresses of the three men in this city will just about wind-up the hottest fight for offices staged in this district for many years.

BY C. H. HADDOX

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Every available politician in the state was called into action today as campaign leaders in Ohio's bitter political battle carried their fight down the home stretch in a whirlwind finish.

COX IS ACTIVE

With former Governor James N. Cox attacking the new tariff and the Cooper administration; Governor Myers Y. Cooper combatting assaults upon what he claims as achievements of his regime, and with George White, Democratic gubernatorial nominee from Marietta, maintaining a steady fire upon the present state administration, oratorical activities are reaching the pinnacle of intensity in the Ohio political battle.

There are 1,184,929 votes in Ohio's registration cities to be garnered and both sides, although each appears confident of a majority, are making a strong last bid. The number of voters in Ohio's registration cities is shown by official records on file with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown.

The figures are the first compiled in the Buckeye state. State election experts estimate that 1,192,699 voters registered in Ohio last year. Two years ago the total registration was even larger, it is believed.

Endorsing the candidacy of Robert J. Bulkley, Democratic nominee for United States senator on a "wet" platform, Cox said that Bulkley "caught the public imagination at once and the tide running in his favor is one of the most dramatic political episodes in our history."

COOPER REPLIES
Governor Cooper not only recounted the achievement of his administration but replied to Democratic attacks during an address at Youngstown Monday night.

Governor Cooper asserted that the Democratic "caravan of calamity" with no plan, or program and "with only a cry of bewailment to offer," cannot accomplish anything in Ohio.

He said that if state expenditures were higher last year, it was "because we paid Democratic debts." Replying to the charge that welfare institutions have been neglected, Cooper declared: "We will have under way, or completed, facilities to take care of more persons in welfare institutions than were provided for during the last 10 years."

Claiming that "press agents" are not needed to stimulate interest in Ohio's outdoor life, George White, Democratic nominee for governor, in an address at Portsmouth Monday night, said he favored "intelligent, non-political conservation" in accord with the aims of the sportsmen.

HITS JOBBOLDERS
White said that the state division of conservation is "topheavy with jobholders." Referring to a so-called publicity bureau, with a chief and five assistants, White said: "We certainly will not need them in my administration as political propagandists." He said he would delegate to the state conservation council "the authority sought for it by the League of Ohio Sportsmen, the Izak Walton League and the legislature."

WIFE PLEADS TO PAY BIG RANSOM

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 28.—Pleading with authorities not to interfere and thus endanger the life of her husband, Mrs. Earl Yocum today to pay a $50,000 ransom for the release of her millionaire banker-husband who was kidnapped from his home here Saturday night.

"What is $50,000 compared to my husband's life?" Mrs. Yocum demanded as she implored Henry-co authorities and investigators for the Illinois Bankers' Association to halt their search for the kidnaping gang, generally believed to be from Chicago.

Contributed Most to Letters, Art and Science

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt has been chosen as the 1930 winner of the award of $5,000, given annually to the American woman who has contributed most to the national life in letters, art, science, philanthropy or social welfare.

KING WINTER NEARER OHIO

Alexander, State Meteorologist, Predicts This Winter to Be One of Coldest.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Old King winter is about to wrap his snowy cloak about the Buckeye state, according to predictions at the United States Bureau here, and Ohioans are probably in for one of the coldest winters in recent years. The extremely cold season is due, Weatherman William H. Alexander said, according to the law of averages.

After sweltering through the hottest summer in 50 years, Ohio and the rest of the United States are now due for one of the coldest winters. This will last for several seasons. And colder winters are in store for the near future, the weatherman said.

The weatherman stated that weather seems to run in cycles of three to five years. During the past 10 years there has been the least snowfall in Ohio than at any corresponding time previous, constituting an unusually long cycle.

Because of the recent drought, rainfall in Ohio and vicinity has fallen far below the average. The climax of the warm cycle was probably reached during the drought, Alexander said.

"I have no basis for the prediction of cold weather, except the general law of averages, and I am prepared for a very marked change of weather," the meteorologist declared.

ARMED BANDITS GET $1700 LOOT

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—Striking one of their victims over the head with the butt of a revolver and threatening two others with death, two armed bandits today escaped with a loot of $203 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $1,500.

The victims of the holdup were: Dr. William J. Sawyer, Kenneth Maxwell and Anthony Popp. Popp was struck by one of the bandits when he attempted to draw a gun from his pocket.

The holdup occurred on the outskirts of the city, while Dr. Sawyer, a resident of Independence, O., accompanied by Maxwell, was being driven toward the city by his chauffeur Popp.

COAL MINERS TRAPPED FAR BELOW EARTH

Explosion in Oklahoma Mine May Prove Fatal To At Least 30 Men.

RESCUE IS ON

Trained Crews Summoned To Aid in Recovery of Bodies

BULLETIN

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 28.—All hope for the rescue of twenty nine miners entombed by an explosion in the lower levels of the Wheatley No. 4 coal mine of the Samples Coal company was virtually abandoned at 8:30 a. m., today when the rescuers encountered black damp at the fifteenth level of the mine.

The men are entombed in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth levels, 3,600 feet from the mouth of the mine.

McALESTER, Okla., 28.—Twenty-nine miners were trapped in the lower levels of the Wheatley No. 4 coal mine of the Samples Coal by an explosion which occurred near the mouth of the mine last night. One man, William Donley, was killed by the blast.

At 7:15 a. m., today rescue crews had worked their way through the debris to the tenth bed of the mine. The men are trapped in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth beds, about 3,600 feet from the mouth of the mine and rescue workers estimated it would be noon before they would reach the entombed miners.

The mouth of the mine was blocked by debris from the blast and rescue workers were delayed several hours in entering the mine. The explosion was one of the most violent on record in this district and was plainly heard here, two miles from the scene of the blast in N. McAlester.

The fate of the entombed men was unknown this morning and experts could not say whether or not there was a chance of the men being alive. The cause of the explosion is a mystery.

The entombed miners were members of a crew which went on duty at 7 o'clock last night and they had been at work several hours when the explosion occurred.

A group of American Legion members who were attending a relief committee meeting were among the first at the scene and they took immediate charge outside the mine and held back the crowds and relatives of the entombed miners.

The mine is located in North McAlester on the state penitentiary farm a short distance from the prison. It has eighteen levels and is a sloping mine extending between 3,000 and 4,000 feet from the mouth of the mine.

Trained rescue crews of miners were called into action to take charge of the work inside the mine.

2,000 ABORIGINES MASSACRE POLICE

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A serious uprising of 2,000 Aborigines in Taichu, an inaccessible district of Formosa, was reported in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokio today.

The Aborigines massacred the police, burned their stations to the ground and seized 100 rifles, the dispatch said. Fears are felt for the safety of 175 Japanese colonists in the district.

A punitive expedition is enroute to the troubled area, the message added.

CONVICT SLAIN ACCIDENTALLY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 28.—Charles Hamilton, 30, of Canton, O., who was sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary on May 21, 1926, on charges of first degree murder, was accidentally electrocuted at the prison today.

Penitentiary officials said that Hamilton was attempting to start the elevator in the dining room of the prison. There was apparently a "short" in the switch box. As Hamilton seized hold of the box, the electricity poured through his body, killing him instantly.

N. W. WILDCATS FACE STRONG MINNESOTA 11

Game Holds Spotlight of Conference; Illini Tackle Purdue Boilermakers.

BY GEORGE C. GALLATI.
CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Western conference eleven were preparing today for Saturday's resumption of the mad championship whirl in which the clash between Northwestern and Minnesota, two of the unbeaten Big Ten trio, draws the spotlight's glare.

The raring Northwestern team, primed with a running and passing attack that has drawn attention from coast to coast, will march on Minneapolis as a heavy favorite to bump the Northerners from the triple tie for first place. Minnesota, however, is rated as a powerful contender.

The Wildcats from Evanston, Ill., apparently have emerged from their siege of hard luck that sent their captain and star back Hank Bruder, to the hospital and brought painful small pox vaccinations to 70 varsity squad members.

Bruder will lead the Northwestern attack on Minnesota, and although this will be his first appearance since the season's opening games, the big back is expected to turn in some stellar ground gaining. Both eleven have had two weeks in which to build up their attacks for the crucial test.

The two other conference clashes will see Purdue, with a 667 percentage and a fighting chance of finishing the season close to the top should the leaders falter, hammering at Illinois and Wisconsin renewing football relations with Ohio State after a long lapse.

Although the green Illini machine may have no hope of title honors Coach Bob Zuppke's men are cherishing a desire to wreck

Purdue's chances just as Purdue spilled Wisconsin from the unbeaten four last Saturday.

Michigan's conference leading eleven goes into retirement for the week-end to rest up for the Harvard game in the East a week from Saturday. Three conference victories and no defeats together with Harry Newman, heavy passing and kicking field general of uncanny ability, have boosted Michigan's hopes as no team has since the days of Kipke, Oosterbaan and Friedman.

Notre Dame's apparently unconquerable machine will meet an old enemy in Indiana this Saturday in a game which at this distance appears only as an appetite sharpener for the powerful Irish.

Iowa, its Big Ten season opened and closed in one afternoon against Purdue, meets a non-conference foe in Detroit University.

BUS IS WRECKED NO ONE INJURED

ZANESVILLE, O., Oct. 28.—A dozen persons today were recovering from shock received yesterday when a westbound Red Star bus, in which they were passengers, plunged over an embankment as John Spargrove, 34, of Old Washington, O., suffered a fatal heart attack.

Spargrove attempted to jam on the emergency brake but he collapsed. A passenger, seated directly behind him, managed to guide the bus as it reeled dizzily off the road into a field where it came to a stop.

None of the passengers were hurt. Spargrove was dead upon arrival at a hospital.

FIRE DAMAGES NILES COMPANY

NILES, O., Oct. 27.—Fire of unknown origin today swept through the plant of the Niles Corrugating Company, causing a damage of $30,000.

The fire delayed railroad traffic for more than three hours and cut off all electrical power in the city for two hours.

The blaze is believed by Fire Chief James Swager to have resulted from an explosion. The building was in flames when firemen arrived on the scene.

Harry Newman, Michigan's quarterback and probably the outstanding newcomer to the Big Ten this season, is shown trying a place kick, with Fielding Yost, Jr., son of "Hurry Up" Yost, Michigan's famous athletic director, holding the ball. Newman's generalship and forward passing have played a big part in the Wolverines' surprise victories over Purdue and Ohio.

men arrived on the scene. The alarm was given by Edgar Lockwood, who is employed in the city plant, next to the damaged building.

The plant is located near the railroad tracks and trains were unable to proceed because it was feared the building would collapse.

DUCE CRIES FOR FASCIST EUROPE

ROME, Oct. 28.—"A Fascist Europe, solving the problems of the modern state in the Fascist way," was envisioned by Premier Benito Mussolini today in a fiery speech delivered to the Fascist provincial chiefs of Italy gathered here.

Il Duce vigorously denied that Fascism was a danger to European peace, while he ridiculed the disarmament efforts of the league of nations, and defended Italy's Balkan policies.

"Our Balkan policies are dictated by our need to expand outward," he declared. "We shall always be hard with our enemies, and we shall march with our friends to the end."

PROPOSE NEWER RAIL FRANCHISE

WELLSVILLE, O., Oct. 27.—Discussion of a proposed new franchise for the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Company will take place at a meeting of the city council on November 5, it was announced here today by R. H. Keay, chairman of the franchise committee.

The old franchise of the company expired on Sept. 19. The trolley company has been continuing operations pending arrangements for the new franchise.

EAST WATCHES YALE CONTEST

Elis To Meet Test In Dartmouth's Big Green; Booth Will Probably Play.

By COPELAND C. BURG
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Of some half dozen undefeated teams to date, which because of the strength of their schedules are entitled to claims for the nation's football title, Dartmouth faces the stiffest test this week.

The big Green machine, which in five games has rolled up 132 points, engages Yale at New Haven and with or without Albie Booth the boys from Hanover are facing a feverish afternoon.

Notre Dame has somewhat of a breather in Indiana, Kansas should win from Penn without trouble, Washington State is favored over Oregon State and Northwestern is a natural choice over Minnesota, although the Gophers have a habit of upsetting brilliant opponents.

In the south, Georgia, undefeated and winner over Yale, plays Florida and Alabama and Kentucky, both with clean records, will do some eliminating at Lexington.

North Dakota, winner of six games this season and with a total of 147 points, is likely to join the lists of fallen giants as the westerners oppose the tower of strength Major Sasse has built in the Army cohorts at West Point.

Fordham Tough

Fordham the only team in the country which has kept all opponents scoreless, plays West Virginia in New York City. Unfortunately Fordham is like a large number of the 25 undefeated teams of the country today in having a schedule that many class as weak when contrasted with those of Notre Dame and Yale, for instance.

Some idea of Fordham's power will be furnished in the medium of impressive scores through the New York University-Carnegie Tech game at Pittsburgh. Notre Dame, acknowledged by almost everyone as the country's outstanding eleven at this writing, defeated Tech 21 to 6 and Fordham won 7 to 0 over New York University.

Gil Dobie's undefeated Cornell eleven has a pushover in Columbia, which folded up like an accordion gasping a tune of 52 to 0 against Dartmouth.

Yale Bowl and the Bulldog have always been a jinx to the Green and the brilliant game played by the Blue against Army last Saturday in the face of the depressing clout dealt with the elimination of Booth, the Elis and field general, indicates Yale victories are likely to be continued over the Hanoverites.

Yale has been coming along like a frightened deer since upset at the start of the season by Georgia and against Dartmouth will offer the full stride of power. Booth proved a mighty factor when Yale defeated Brown 21 to 0 and if the little star recovers from injuries received in his sole play in the Army tilt and directs the Elis against Dartmouth, the New Haven team should rate at least one touchdown better than the Green.

Game Holds Spotlight of Conference; Illini Tackle Purdue Boilermakers.

BY GEORGE C. GALLATI.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Western conference eleven were preparing today for Saturday's resumption of the mad championship whirl in which the clash between Northwestern and Minnesota, two of the unbeaten Big Ten trio, draws the spotlight's glare.

The raring Northwestern team, primed with a running and passing attack that has drawn attention from coast to coast, will march on Minneapolis as a heavy favorite to bump the Northerners from the triple tie for first place. Minnesota, however, is rated as a powerful contender.

The Wildcats from Evanston, Ill., apparently have emerged from their siege of hard luck that sent their captain and star back Hank Bruder, to the hospital and brought painful small pox vaccinations to 70 varsity squad members.

Bruder will lead the Northwestern attack on Minnesota, and although this will be his first appearance since the season's opening games, the big back is expected to turn in some stellar ground gaining. Both eleven have had two weeks in which to build up their attacks for the crucial test.

The two other conference clashes will see Purdue, with a 667 percentage and a fighting chance of finishing the season close to the top should the leaders falter, hammering at Illinois and Wisconsin renewing football relations with Ohio State after a long lapse.

Although the green Illini machine may have no hope of title honors Coach Bob Zuppke's men are cherishing a desire to wreck

Purdue's chances just as Purdue spilled Wisconsin from the unbeaten four last Saturday.

Michigan's conference leading eleven goes into retirement for the week-end to rest up for the Harvard game in the East a week from Saturday. Three conference victories and no defeats together with Harry Newman, heavy passing and kicking field general of uncanny ability, have boosted Michigan's hopes as no team has since the days of Kipke, Oosterbaan and Friedman.

Notre Dame's apparently unconquerable machine will meet an old enemy in Indiana this Saturday in a game which at this distance appears only as an appetite sharpener for the powerful Irish.

Iowa, its Big Ten season opened and closed in one afternoon against Purdue, meets a non-conference foe in Detroit University.

BUS IS WRECKED NO ONE INJURED

ZANESVILLE, O., Oct. 28.—A dozen persons today were recovering from shock received yesterday when a westbound Red Star bus, in which they were passengers, plunged over an embankment as John Spargrove, 34, of Old Washington, O., suffered a fatal heart attack.

Spargrove attempted to jam on the emergency brake but he collapsed. A passenger, seated directly behind him, managed to guide the bus as it reeled dizzily off the road into a field where it came to a stop.

None of the passengers were hurt. Spargrove was dead upon arrival at a hospital.

FIRE DAMAGES NILES COMPANY

NILES, O., Oct. 27.—Fire of unknown origin today swept through the plant of the Niles Corrugating Company, causing a damage of $30,000.

The fire delayed railroad traffic for more than three hours and cut off all electrical power in the city for two hours.

The blaze is believed by Fire Chief James Swager to have resulted from an explosion. The building was in flames when fire-

The plant is located near the railroad tracks and trains were unable to proceed because it was feared the building would collapse.

DUCE CRIES FOR FASCIST EUROPE

ROME, Oct. 28.—"A Fascist Europe, solving the problems of the modern state in the Fascist way," was envisioned by Premier Benito Mussolini today in a fiery speech delivered to the Fascist provincial chiefs of Italy gathered here.

"I Duce vigorously denied that Fascism was a danger to European peace, while he ridiculed the disarmament efforts of the league of nations, and defended Italy's Balkan policies.

"Our Balkan policies are dictated by our need to go forward," he declared. "We shall always be hard with our enemies, and we shall march with our friends to the end."

EAST WATCHES YALE CONTEST

Eli To Meet Test In Dartmouth's Big Green; Booth Will Probably Play.

By COPELAND C. BURG

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Of some half dozen undefeated teams to date, which because of the strength of their schedules are entitled to claims for the nation's football title, Dartmouth faces the stiffest test this week.

The big Green machine, which in five games has rolled up 32 points, engages Yale at New Haven and with or without Albie Booth the boys from Hanover are facing a feverish afternoon.

Notre Dame has somewhat of a breather in Indiana, Kansas should win from Penn without trouble, Washington State is favored over Oregon State and Northwestern is a natural choice over Minnesota, although the Gophers have a habit of upsetting brilliant opponents.

In the south, Georgia, undefeated and winner over Yale, plays Florida and Alabama and Kentucky, both with clean records, will do some eliminating at Lexington.

North Dakota, winner of six games this season and with a total of 147 points, is likely to join the lists of fallen giants as the westerners oppose the tower of strength Major Sasse has built in the Army cohorts at West Point.

FORDHAM TOUGH

Fordham the only team in the country which has kept all opponents scoreless, plays West Virginia in New York City. Unfortunately Fordham is like a large number of the 25 undefeated teams of the Country today in having a schedule that many class as weak when contrasted with those of Notre Dame and Yale, for instance.

Some idea of Fordham's power will be furnished in the medium of impatience scores through the New York University-Carnegie Tech game at Pittsburgh. Notre Dame, acknowledged by almost everyone as the country's outstanding eleven at this writing, defeated Tech 21 to 6 and Fordham won 7 to 0 over New York University.

Gil Dobie's undefeated Cornell eleven has a pushover in Columbia, which folded up like an accordion gasping a tune of 52 to 0 against Dartmouth.

Yale Bowl and the Bulldog have always been a jinx to the Green and the brilliant game played by the Blue against Army last Saturday in the face of the depressing clout dealt with the elimination of Booth, the Eli ace and field general, indicates Yale victories are likely to be continued over the Hanoverites.

Yale has been coming along like a frightened deer since upset at the start of the season by Georgia and against Dartmouth will offer the full stride of power. Booth proved a mighty factor when Yale defeated Brown 21 to 0 and if the little star recovers from injuries received in his sole play in the Army tilt and directs the Elis against Dartmouth, the New Haven team should rate at least one touchdown better than the Green.

Lima News Throws Influence To Democratic Ticket In Editorial Column.

Support of the Republican publisher of The Lima News, was thrown to the Democratic ticket this week in an editorial urging election of George White, as governor, and all Democratic state and county nominees. The News, independent in its political opinions and owned by L. S. Galvin, Republican, thus added its voice to those of other Independent and Republican papers which have chosen to lend aid to the Democratic aspirations.

It indorses wholeheartedly the candidacy of Robert J. Bulkley, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, previously approved by such Republican papers as The Cleveland News, Toledo Blade, Toledo Times and Akron Beacon Journal.

The Lima News editorial reads in part:

"Every known sign by which political observers from their opinions as to the outcome of approaching election indicates that this will be one of the greatest Democratic years in recent times in Ohio. Straw votes, the general attitude of the people one meets and a background which demands a change in administrative affairs all lead to the one conclusion that the hosts of the Jeffersonian party, aided by a great number from the party in power, will sweep to an overwhelming victory on November 4.

"George White, not a great orator, not a glib-tongued politician but a sane business man, founded in the fundamentals of government and an outstanding success in his own right, would take to the capitol at Columbus the essentials we must place there to restore confidence in the people. George White would give this state a business administration which would fulfill the prophecy of Governor Cox who said he would, if elected, take high rank among the outstanding chief executives of the commonwealth. Ohio needs him and should not hesitate to elect him.

"Ohio ought to elect White and Bulkley. They should be given an opportunity by having elected along with them the complete state and county tickets together with a friendly legislature at Columbus which would not tie the hands of a governor equipped to start us on the road back to prosperity and keep us going in that direction."

To its editorial indorsement of White, for governor, and Bulkley, for the senatorship, the independent Cleveland Plain Dealer added a recommendation that William G. Pickrel be elected lieutenant governor.

The editorial read: "The lieutenant governorship of Ohio is not a conspicuous office. Although filling an important place as president of the Senate its incumbent gets little publicity. In some states the lieutenant governor is considered in line for the governorship. That has not been the political practice in Ohio. This is perhaps regrettable, as the lieutenant governor is in a position to obtain valuable training for the higher office to which he stands heir in the case of disability of the governor.

"Logically the voters should not consider a candidate for lieutenant governor whom they would not be content to see as governor. Actually they often do probably because it has sometimes been difficult to get first caliber men to seek an office that sometimes seems a political blind alley.

"This year the voters have a chance to select as lieutenant governor a man who takes the office seriously. William G. Pickrel of Dayton, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor held that office for some months in 1928 having been appointed by Gov. Donahy to fill a vacancy. He proved himself a vigorous and intelligent official. He is a distinguished member of the Ohio bar, having been president of the Ohio State Bar Association.

"He is the type of man who will help to raise the prestige of the lieutenant governorship. He should be elected."

CO-OPERATIVE MARK GREATER THAN ORIGINATORS OF GROUP EVER EXPRESSED DESIRE FOR

That the amount of live stock marketed cooperatively in Ohio should reach $17,000,000 in value in ten years probably was beyond the hopes of the little group of farmers that met at the Southern Hotel in Columbus back in 1920 to form what now is the Ohio Live Stock Cooperative Association.

Whether that much was hoped for or not matters little. The fact remains that the volume handled cooperatively had gradually increased until in 1929 that point had been reached. Last year, the annual report sets forth, the cooperative live stock marketing organization rendered to stockmen of Ohio the greatest service to the largest number of individuals since organized live stock work began ten years ago.

QUOTE FIGURES
Cooperative associations in 46 major live stock producing counties of the state marketed 575,514 hogs, 27,134 cattle, 48,805 calves and 152,214 sheep weighing a total of 157,877,973 pounds and valued at $16,707,973 net. The 98,748 individual shipments represented some 60,000 Ohio Stockmen.

In addition there were brought into the state 11,721 feeder cattle, 11,345 feeder lambs and 347 feeder pigs having a total value of more than $750,000.

"The aims of cooperative live stock marketing in Ohio may be summed up in nine general statements," J. R. Allgyer, secretary-treasurer of the state organization proclaims. "They are: (1) to obtain bargaining power for live stock producers; (2) to improve marketing service; (3) to lower marketing costs; (4) to guarantee returns to the producer; (5) to build a permanent and profitable live stock marketing system; (6) to disseminate unbiased and timely market information; (7) to eliminate any unfair market practices; (8) to establish helpful competition on all markets; and (9) to improve legislation and transportation services for all live stock producers."

Individual farmers who are bona fide producers of live stock, are members of the state association by virtue of marketing their stock through their county association, each man owning a part of and exerting his influence in the direction of the state and nationwide system.

DEPENDS ON UNITS
Although affiliation with the state organization is entirely voluntary on the part of the county association, every county unit in the state is a member-strengthening and supporting cooperative live stock marketing. Because of this it is stated, Ohio is distinguished by having one of the strongest cooperative live stock marketing organizations in the country.

More than a score of major accomplishments of cooperative live stock work in Ohio may be listed including such well recognized improvements as the following: establishment of producer terminal marketing agencies at Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Buffalo; removed many questionable market practices on these markets; was influential in establishing U. S. Government reporting service at the terminal markets; began the practice of selling live stock on the basis of yield, lowered the expense of marketing, developed sales outlets for interior marketing; reduced speculation by returning to the producer the price secured for his live stock less only the actual marketing costs; and as the volume increased provided a wider choice of outlets to insure the highest net return to the producer.

Farmers from the first recognized that in order to retain the ownership and control of their statewide system they must invest the responsibility of direction in farmers actually producing in far and well-acquainted with the marketing of it. Those whom they have chosen as directors of the state association serving from the present term are: F. G. Lyle, Hillsboro, president; Irwin Porteus, Coshocton, vice-president; Edward C. Rector, this city; B. B. Brumley, McComb, A. T. Moser, Upper Sandusky; L. D. Musselman, Bellefontaine; Fred Dorn, So. Solon; E. Dill, Lockbourne; T. M. Carmean, Edison; F. W. Bowen, Wren; G. C. Hovenstine, Hicksville; W. K. Swan, Oxford; E. C. Darling, Nellie; R. R. Caldwell, Batavia; Walter F. Kirk, Port Clinton; and N. G. Bennett, McComb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shonebarger and children, Mary and Francis of Sugar Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Valentine of Waynesville, J. Joseph Shonebarger and daughters, Mary Margaret and Helen of Lancaster were guests the latter part of last week of John Shonebarger and Miss Ada Shonebarger 339 Watt-st.

DECEPTION IS MAN'S CHARGE

Democratic Chairman Blames
Cooper For Leaflet of White Propaganda.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—"Distortion and deception, characteristic of the campaign against George White Democratic candidate for governor are responsible for a Cooper administration leaflet misrepresenting Mr. White as opposing an increase in soldiers' pay while in Congress," said Henry G. Brunner, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee in a statement made public today.

"The Congressional Record shows these are the facts. Congressman James W. Good, Republican, advocated recommitment of a measure providing for army organization. Its major provisions were essential in completing U. S. army plans. Good's tactics meant imperiling the nation's program."

"White and 177 other congressmen fought Good's attempt to obstruct the government. They were defeated by 189 other congressmen who voted for Good's motion and its inevitable delay."

"Later when the question of providing for an increase in soldiers' pay came up White voted for it."

"He and the 177 who voted with him in the first instance merely insisted the pay increase should be approved in a separate measure but that the important army organization plans should be enacted into law without the delay that Congressman Good's proposal entailed."

"The whole story is set forth in the Congressional Record reports of debate but only excerpts that serve its purpose are quoted in the leaflet designed to put Mr. White in a false light."

"With such bunk Cooper speakers attempt to deceive world war veterans who having no ready access to the full truth in the Congressional Record, have been talked in some cases into falling for it. Ex-service men familiar with the facts have denounced the circulation of misleading quotations from the Record and are warning their buddies to ignore them."

"And in resenting the Cooper method of campaigning they have called attention also to the fact that the Democratic platform is the only one containing a declaration acknowledging the obligation all of us owe to those who were in service."

"This plank in the platform to which Mr. White and all other Democratic candidates subscribe, reads." "Recognizing the great debt we owe those who served our country patriotically in time of war, we pledge strict adherence to existing laws enacted for their benefit and a sympathetic attitude toward future meritorious legislation in their behalf."

"The Republican platform makes no mention whatever of veterans and the responsibility of government toward them."

"Having ignored those who served the nation in their statement of principles and pledges, the Republican managers now seek to manifest a false solicitude and mislead those whose patriotic devotion seemed to them too unimportant to notice."

This is perhaps regrettable, as the lieutenant governor is in a position to obtain valuable training for the higher office to which he stands heir in the case of disability of the governor.

"Logically the voters should not consider a candidate for lieutenant governor whom they would not be content to see as governor. Actually they often do, probably because it has sometimes been difficult to get first caliber men to seek an office that sometimes seems a political blind alley.

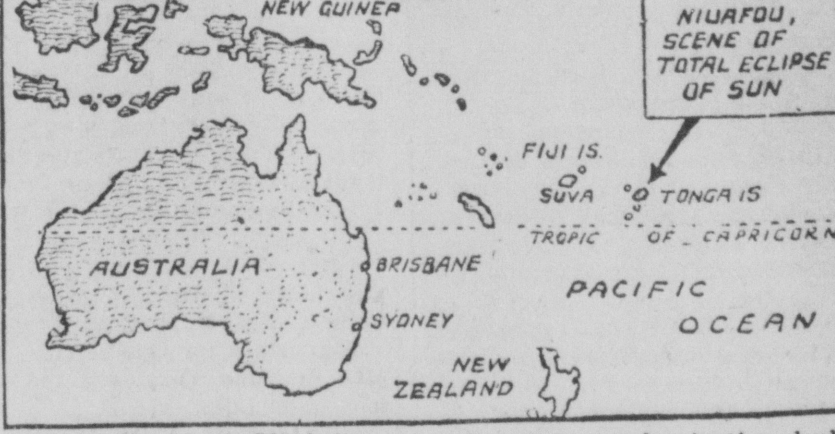

"This year the voters have a chance to select as lieutenant governor a man who takes the office seriously. William G. Pickrel of Dayton, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, held that office for some months in 1928, having been appointed by Gov. Donahey to fill a vacancy. He proved himself a vigorous and intelligent official. He is a distinguished member of the Ohio bar, having been president of the Ohio State Bar Association.

"He is the type of man who will help to raise the prestige of the lieutenant governorship. He should be elected."

Democratic Chairman Blames
Cooper For Leaflet of White Propaganda.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—"Distortion and deception, characteristic of the campaign against George White Democratic candidate for governor, are responsible for a Cooper administration leaflet misrepresenting Mr. White as opposing an increase in soldiers' pay while in Congress," said Henry G. Brunner, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, in a statement made public today.

"The Congressional Record shows these are the facts: Congressman James W. Good, Republican, advocated recommitment of a measure providing for army organization. Its major provisions were essential in completing U. S. army plans. Good's tactics meant imperiling the nation's program.

"White and 177 other congressmen fought Good's attempt to obstruct the government. They were defeated by 199 other congressmen who voted for Good's motion and its inevitable delay.

"Later when the question of providing for an increase in soldiers' pay came up White voted for it.

"He and the 177 who voted with him in the first instance merely insisted the pay increase should be approved in a separate measure but that the important army organization plans should be enacted into law without the delay that Congressman Good's proposal entailed.

"The whole story is set forth in the Congressional Record reports of debate but only excerpts that serve its purpose are quoted in the leaflet designed to put Mr. White in a false light.

"With such bunk Cooper speaks attempt to deceive world war veterans, who having no ready access to the full truth in the Congressional Record, have been talking in some cases into falling for it. Ex-service men familiar with the facts have denounced the circulation of misleading quotations from the Record and are warning their buddies to ignore them.

"And in resenting the Cooper method of campaigning they have called attention also to the fact that the Democratic platform is the only one containing a declaration acknowledging the obligation all of us owe to those who were in service."

"This plank in the platform, to which Mr. White and all other

Democratic candidates subscribe, reads: "Recognizing the great debt we owe those who served our country patriotically in time of war, we pledge strict adherence to existing laws enacted for their benefit and a sympathetic attitude toward future meritorious legislation in their behalf."

"The Republican platform makes no mention whatever of veterans and the responsibility of government toward them.

"Having ignored those who served the nation in their statement of principles and pledges, the Republican managers now seek to manifest a false solicitude and mislead those whose patriotic devotion seemed to them too unimportant to notice."

CO-OPERATIVE MARK GREATER THAN ORIGINATORS OF GROUP EVER EXPRESSED DESIRE FOR

That the amount of live stock marketed cooperatively in Ohio should reach $17,000,000 in value in ten years probably was beyond the hopes of the little group of farmers that met at the Southern Hotel in Columbus back in 1920 to form what now is the Ohio Live Stock Cooperative Association.

Whether that much was hoped for or not matters little. The fact remains that the volume handled cooperatively had gradually increased until in 1929 that point had been reached. Last year, the annual report sets forth, the cooperative live stock marketing organization rendered to stockmen of Ohio the greatest service to the largest number of individuals since organized live stock work began ten years ago.

CO-OPERATIVE FIGURES
Cooperative associations in 16 major live stock producing counties of the state marketed 575,514 hogs, 27,134 cattle, 48,805 calves and 152,214 sheep weighing a total of 157,877,407 pounds and valued at $16,707,973 net. The 98,748 individual shipments represented some 60,000 Ohio stockmen.

In addition there were brought into the state 11,721 feeder cattle, 11,345 feeder lambs and 347 feeder pigs having a total value of more than $750,000.

"The aims of cooperative live stock marketing in Ohio may be summed up in nine general statements," J. R. Allgyer, secretary-treasurer of the state organization proclaims. "They are: (1) to obtain bargaining power for live stock producers, (2) to improve marketing service, (3) to lower marketing costs, (4) to guarantee returns to the producer, (5) to build a permanent and profitable live stock marketing system, (6) to disseminate unbiased and timely market information, (7) to eliminate any unfair market practices, (8) to establish helpful competition on all markets, and (9) to improve legislation and transportation services for all live stock producers."

Individual farmers, who are bona fide producers of live stock, are members of the state association by virtue of marketing their stock through their county association, each man owning a part of, and exerting his influence in the direction of the state and nationwide system.

DEPENDS ON UNITS
Although affiliation with the state organization is entirely voluntary on the part of the county association, every county unit in the state is a member-strengthening and supporting cooperative live stock marketing. Because of this, it is stated, Ohio is distinguished by having one of the strongest cooperative live stock marketing organizations in the country.

More than a score of major accomplishments of cooperative live stock work in Ohio may be listed including such widely recognized improvements as the following: establishment of producer terminal marketing agencies at Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Buffalo; removed many questionable market practices on these markets; was influential in establishing U. S. Government reporting service at the terminal markets; began the practice of selling live stock on the basis of yield; lowered the expense of marketing; developed sales outlets for interior marketing; reduced speculation by returning to the producer the price secured for his live stock less only the actual marketing costs; and as the volume increased provided a wider choice of outlets to insure the highest net return to the producer.

Farmers from the first recognized that in order to retain the ownership and control of their statewide system they must invest the responsibility of direction in farmers actually producing in far and well-acquainted with the marketing of it. Those whom they have chosen as directors of the state association serving from the present term are: F. G. Lyle, Hillsboro, president; Irwin Porteus, Coshocton, vice-president; Edward C. Rector, this city; B. B. Brumley, McComb; A. T. Moser, Upper Sandusky; L. D. Musselman, Bellefontaine; Fred Dorn, So. Solon; F. E. Dill, Lockbourne; T. M. Carmean, Edison; F. W. Bowen, Wren; G. C. Howenstine, Hicksville; W. K. Swan, Oxford; E. C. Darling, Nellie; R. R. Caldwell, Batavia; Walter F. Kirk, Port Clinton; and N. G. Bennett, McComb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shonebarger and children, Mary and Francis of Sugar Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Valentine of Waynesville, O., Joseph Shonebarger and daughters Mary Margaret and Helen of Lancaster were guests the latter part of last week of John Shonebarger and Miss Ada Shonebarger, 339 Watt-st.

Here is the complete statement as authorized by

JAMES A. FARLEY

President, General Builders Supply Corp.; Chairman, New York State Athletic Commission; Chairman, New York State Democratic Committee

"I am certain that without the use of modern, scientific methods the skyscrapers for which our country is so justly proud would never have been possible. I am equally convinced that your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the Toasting of your LUCKY STRIKE Tobaccos ranks with the many other great contributions to the health and comfort of millions and that it is responsible for the skyscraping sales of your famous brand."

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. James A. Farley to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Farley appears on this page.

MY GOODNESS! YOU
AREN'T UNDECIDED
ARE YOU, GEORGE?

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

Our Rules

SAYS a banker, speaking at a symposium on unemployment:

"No group of persons have a greater opportunity and corresponding responsibility than the bankers. By their counsel and their decisions they must assist in regulating the flow of credit, restricting it whether its use will contribute to undue expansion and overproduction and releasing it where, on the other hand, it will at the proper time and place contribute to meet a real demand for greater production."

Money or credit is the fuel that feeds the business fires. Those who control credit control more than any other group of men, the whole economic system.

The most notable development of recent history has been the growth in the power of banks. Financiers are the real rulers nowadays. It becomes of more and more importance that their decisions be wise and fair.

The tradition is that city people are smart and country people are dumb, yet we find that the fellow from the farm usually makes good in a business office, and we all know what happens to the city business man when he tries to run a farm.

Home Lighting

THE lighting of offices, schools, factories and stores is a fairly simple problem. The thing

wanted is effective illumination with the least eye strain. Lighting the home involves more. Says an authority on this subject:

"Lighting has made revolutionary differences on the stage, and can be just as effective in a pri-cate home. Women are beginning to realize that they can change the mood of a room, and set various kinds of costumes with different lighting. A bridge party calls for bright illumination, and a tea for something soft. Street clothes demand one effect and evening clothes another."

Some one may object that women wouldn't have realized these things if clever lighting experts hadn't thought of them first and then brought them to public attention, but that is being needlessly cynical. There is no reason why we shouldn't have varied and beautiful lighting effects in our homes,

if the improvements really improve, increasing efficiency and comfort as well as charm.

Midget Radio

MINIATURE golf is following by miniature radio. Minisette sets for the market are now

so small that they can be carried in a pocket. And as a matter of fact, they may take the place of the obsolete time-piece. Don't a good many people already depend on radio announcements for the time of day?

In the course of the manufacturing process, it can't be long now until we have radio receivers that we can carry around in our vest pocket.

One pocket will do for the watch and the other will hold the radio.

The chain will be the same.

It will be confusing, though, till we get used to it. We'll be winding the radio when we go to bed and turning the watch hands to get Los Angeles.

Instead of "Business as usual"

a surplus in good time to carry it the slogan this year seems to be

"dividends as usual."

Labor will have to follow the example of capital, and accumulate capital.

Keep Cool in Aiding Hurt
Person

Flustration Excites the Patient and Aggravates Bleeding,
So Be Calm When Giving First Aid.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

QUITE frequently we are forced to take care of someone who has met with an accident and is bleeding. No one of us enjoys this experience and if the choice of going for the doctor or staying with the bleeder is given, I know what most of us would rather do.

The injured person is usually just as timid and frightened as you are at the sight of blood. He is bleeding and the doctor has been called. Everybody is distressed and worried.
What shall we do until the medicos come?

We are frightened for fear the patient will bleed to death before the doctor arrives. The friends get excited and almost always the patient gets excited. The more you get excited, the more he does.

"First Keep Cool!"
How well I recall a scene in Medical College many years ago. The professor was asking his students as to the proper first procedure in a case of bleeding. Many excellent and correct outlines of the procedure as recited in the text books were given by the anxious-to-please students.

"No, no," stormed the professor, and the amazement of all stated the proper care is first to keep cool. After that," he said, "stop the bleeding."

If we would always remember this and act upon it, there would be less excitement whenever such emergencies arise. A life may be saved in consequence.

Various methods of stopping the blood artificially have been devised by the surgeons. Which one to use depends on the type and size of the bleeding.

As a rule bleeding will stop in a few minutes anyhow, if the patient is kept quiet. The firm pressure of a dressing may do the trick. Such a dressing should be dry and water will often stop the bleeding.

If the bleeding continues and you are not sure as to the vessel that is responsible, something else must be done. Then a "tourniquet" must be applied.

A tourniquet is simply a constrict-ing band placed around the injured limb between the wound and the heart. This pressure shuts off the flow of blood to this part of the body. It consists of a pad, which serves as the pressure part, and a band. The band may be made of a small stone, a piece of wood, or other hard object, wrapped in some material to make it less rough.

If sufficient pressure cannot be exerted by hand, it may be aided by placing a stick under the band and twisting. But you must be careful not to twist so tight as to pressure to rupture, dislocation or marked pain. Always have a physician inspect your work and finish it.

Remember you are only treating the injured person until the doctor arrives. If no one has come within the hour and the tourniquet is on, release it. Allow the tourniquet to remain loose but in place. If the bleeding appears again it may be tightened.

If the tourniquet is left on a wound too long, death of the nearby tissues will take place, due to cutting off the blood supply. This is serious and may be fatal. It should be removed before it is too late.
And don't forget to keep cool!

Our Rules

SAYS a banker, speaking at a symposium on unemployment:

"No group of persons have a greater opportunity and corresponding responsibility than the bankers. By their counsel and their decisions they must assist in regulating the flow of credit, restricting it whether its use will contribute to undue expansion and overproduction and releasing it where, on the other hand, it will at the proper time and place contribute to meet a real demand for greater production."

Money or credit is the fuel that feeds the business fires. Those who control credit control more than any other group of men, the whole economic system.

The most notable development of recent history has been the growth in the power of banks. Financiers are the real rulers nowadays. It becomes of more and more importance that their decisions be wise and fair.

The tradition is that city people are smart and country people are dumb, yet we find that the fellow from the farm usually makes good in a business office, and we all know what happens to the city business man when he tries to run a farm.

Home Lighting

THE lighting of offices, schools, factories and stores is a fairly simple problem. The thing wanted is effective illumination with the least eye strain. Lighting the home involves more. Says an authority on this subject:

"Lighting has made revolutionary differences on the stage, and can be just as effective in a private home. Women are beginning to realize that they can change the mood of a room, and set various kinds of costumes with different lighting. A bridge party calls for bright illumination, and a tea for something soft. Street clothes demand one effect and evening clothes another."

Some one may object that women wouldn't have realized these things if clever lighting experts hadn't thought of them first and then brought them to public attention, but that is being needlessly cynical. There is no reason why we shouldn't have varied and beautiful lighting effects in our homes, if the improvements really improve, increasing efficiency and comfort as well as charm.

Midget Radio

MINIATURE golf is followed by miniature radio. Midget sets for the mantel are now on the market, so small that they occupy little more room than an ordinary clock. And as a matter of fact, they may take the place of the obsolescent time-piece. Don't a good many people already depend on radio announcements for the time of day?

In the course of the minifying process, it can't be long now until we have radio receivers that we can carry around in our vest pockets. One pocket will do for the watch and the other will hold the

FALL SHOPPERS

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

A WEEK aboard the S. S. Mohawk has changed Judith Archer from a serious-minded, non-romantic school teacher into a care-free, pleasure-loving young woman. She receives the attentions of Kit Camp, the ship's radio operator, and Tris Millet, fascinating figure of mystery, while her mother is attracted by a Mr. Tennant. Shortly after reading of the robbery of the famous Ballard emeralds, Judy sees Tris talking with a scar-faced man, whom he previously denied knowing. Questioned regarding his work, Tris becomes vague. That night, while they are strolling on deck, a man attacks Tris. Tris tells Judy he was mistaken for someone else. Kit's expression when he sees Judy with Tris, makes Judy uncomfortable. The easy assurance of Kit annoys Judy and she refuses to go ashore with him.

CHAPTER XXII.

BETSY sat up, shaking with laughter, but lay back quickly, hands to her head. "I love you like anything, Judy, but you're a goocoo. Of course, it wasn't been announced—never will be for all I know. Only happened last night. It's Wally Murphy. You know—fellow I've been kicking all over the place. Young officer fellow, dumb-bell. Good looking trick—and what a sweet-heart!"

Judy looked at the girl on the bed, her dull eyes, the greenish color of her cheeks—imagined her groping through an alcoholic fog, disposing of her life in a few drunken kisses. "As you say, it probably never will be announced. Think it over, Betsy. You never saw him till the other day."

"Yeah, but things happen fast at sea. Ship is like a desert island, you know. Say, you ought to talk! Saw you and Good-looking sneaking out last night. Anyway, it's great while it lasts."

Judy thought of this when she and Tris were snuggled into a sheltered corner of the boat deck late that afternoon. The ship was gliding smoothly on a broad sheet of river which seemed to flow without motion between emerald banks no higher than the water. Sometimes they passed great stretches of brilliant amethyst which Tris said were patches of a swamp flower.

Cattle roamed the shore standing in the flood to drink; there was a brooding peace about the tiny villages which dotted the flat country, gleaming white buildings clustered about a tall, pointed steeple.

Judy brought up a contented sigh spoke softly. "Tranquil after what we've gone through. Life might be so sometime; settle down in a sacred calm."

"You couldn't stand it," he answered moodily. "Roll of drums, my dear—clatter of the flag, Tris's living. City is the place."

"Tomorrow then?" She was excited and eager all at once. "In Montreal, Tris? You're looking forward to this?"

He flicked the ash from his cigarette, watched the wind carry it away. Then he spoke slowly. "Tris's living. Don't care for Montreal. I'm not going ashore."

He moved uneasily. "Shall we walk a while?"

She stood up, moved at his side, a chill silence in her heart.

Judy saw Montreal with Kit. The story of the city was like a great novel to be held in her hand. Turned to catch the light. A hundred facets gleaming, sometimes sinister, always bright.

She meant to go about by herself; to take the formidable note book and make a schoolman's tour of gathering erudition and stiffening the pride which forbade her knocking to Kit Camp's superiority.

But early in the morning she "Not Spit fire? Vixen?" "You remembered? That's because you're fond of me, Judy, my dear. We quarrel with people we're fond of. Because we are fond of them."

"I'm to consider myself caressed if you happen to throw that fist against my chin? Oh, really?" "Wait till I do."

They laughed and were gay. He selected the most resplendent taxi on the pier, settled Judy with care, told the driver to go here and there.

The city seemed a long procession of churches, beautiful homes, very green foliage, stately government buildings. Kit made the cab wait while a creaking old carriage drew them up Mt. Royal. From the gorgeous park at the summit they looked down upon Montreal stretched like a fairy city at their feet. Lake St. Louis was a shimmering mirror toward the south and the Ottawa and St. Lawrence rivers, one yellow and the other blue, flowed side by side but did not mingle.

"There are people like that," Kit remarked solemnly. "Lives run side by side and never touch. You think of such things? I didn't imagine you so serious."

"You didn't credit me with deep thought, my dear?"

Red dyed her cheeks when he gave her an intimate, teasing grin. He seemed such a kid—big, overgrown boy—yet he could be so tranquil. He seemed to rest even while he was moving; she never had known anyone so poised.

She wondered if it might be maddening sometimes, that settled quiet.

She wanted to see one of the great churches and he took her to Notre Dame. They entered the hush there, stood in the shadow, rapt before the beauty of the paintings, the high altar reared in the far dimness.

She felt the peace. A high and holy peace which bore her up as on mounting wings above the little struggles and resentments and fears which tore at her spirit. Tears came springing to her eyes; lights wavered in a shining mist. Then Kit's arm went around her firmly with the touch of understanding. She felt the peace in him, the deep repose which had puzzled her. "He is wonderful," she thought. "Wonderful."

Candles sent out little, daring gleams before a shrine, near by and Judy turned toward this. A man was kneeling at the end of the very last row of seats. His arms were crossed and his head was down on his arms. He did not move by so much as a breath, kneeling there as if lost in prayer, so meek a chin, heart-breakingly humble about his stooping shoulders.

Judy looked away. She felt stricken, as if all inadvertently she had stepped into the presence of a soul stripped bare. The man was Tris Millet. This with his head low, all his jaunty sparkle gone.

She caught Kit's arm, drew him away. Someone moved in the shadow. As the door swung back a ray of light fell across a face—piercing, close-set eyes, bird's of nose, a long scar.

If Kit Camp saw either the boy kneeling before the shrine or the scar-faced man, he gave no sign. He drew a breath of delight as they stepped into the gathering dusk of the street, took Judy's arm, began to hurry her along.

Keep Cool in Aiding Hurt Person

Flustration Excites the Patient and Aggravates Bleeding, So Be Calm When Giving First Aid.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D., U. S. Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

QUITE frequently we are forced to take care of someone who has met with an accident and is bleeding. No one of us enjoys this experience and if the choice of going for the doctor or staying with the bleeder is given, I know what most of us would rather do.

The injured person is usually just as timid and frightened as you are at the sight of blood. He is bleeding and the doctor has been called. Everybody is distressed and worried. What shall we do until the medicos come?

We are frightened for fear the patient will bleed to death before the doctor arrives. The friends get excited and almost always the patient gets excited. The more you get excited, the more he does.

"First Keep Cool!"

How well I recall a scene in Medical College many years ago. The professor was asking his students as to the proper first procedure in a case of bleeding. Many excellent and correct outlines of the procedure as recited in the text books were given by the anxious-to-please students.

"No, no," stormed the professor, and to the amazement of all stated, "The proper care is first to keep cool. After that," he said, "stop the bleeding."

If we would always remember this and act upon it, there would be less excitement whenever such emergencies arise. A life may be saved in consequence.

Various methods of stopping the blood are first described by the surgeons. Which one to use depends on the type and site of the bleeding.

As a rule, bleeding will stop in a few minutes anyhow if the patient is kept quiet. The firm pressure of a dressing may do the trick. Such a dressing makes in very hot water will often stop the bleeding.

If the bleeding continues and you are doubtful as to the vessel that is responsible, something else must be done. Then a "tourniquet" must be applied.

Apply a Tourniquet

A tourniquet is simply a constricting band placed around the injured limb between the wound and the heart. This pressure shuts off the flow of blood to this part of the body. It consists of a pad, which serves as the pressure part, and a small strip of cloth, or a piece of other hard object, wrapped in some material to make it less rough.

If sufficient pressure cannot be exerted by hand, it may easily be aided by placing a stick under the binder and twisting. But you must be careful not to exert sufficient pressure to cause a dislocation or marked pain. Always have a physician inspect your work and finish the job.

Remember you are only treating the injured person until the doctor arrives. If no one has come within the hour, and the tourniquet is on, release it. Allow the tourniquet to remain loose, but in place, if the bleeding appears again it may be tightened.

If the tourniquet is left on a wound too long, death of the nearby tissues will take place due to cutting off the blood supply. This is a serious matter and its danger should always be kept in mind.

And don't forget to keep cool!

Theatres

AT THE METROPOLITAN

As a screen star the winsome Mary Nolan has very definitely "arrived."

According to Hollywood authorities, the blonde beauty has reached a high point in her career in "Outside the Law." Universal's stirring underworld drama at the Metropolitan theatre. In this exciting all-talking production Miss Nolan is seen in a highly emotional role.

The production was directed by Tod Browning, himself the author of the story, and famous as the director of a score of pictures starring Lon Chaney.

Mary Nolan's supporting cast includes Owen Moore, Edward G. Robinson and many other sterling players.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Hollywood inclines to the belief that history repeats itself. More often than not the theory proves true.

For that reason, players who once establish themselves as being adept in certain characterizations are almost certain to continue in subsequent pictures. Writer-director combinations who make one outstanding success are continued as teams.

Having made one eminently successful picture in "Street of Chance," Paramount now combines the talents of star, leading woman, author and director in another production.

The picture is "For the Defense." William Powell is the star, Kay Francis is the leading woman, Oliver H. P. Garrett is the author and John Cromwell is the director. It will be seen and heard at the Cliftona theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

AT THE GRAND

"Mammy" the current featured attraction at the Grand theatre, wherein Warner Brothers offer Al Jolson in his fourth and greatest picture, is the most Jolsonesque of all his productions.

Famous for his burnt cork artistry, "Mammy" gives him a chance to sing most of his songs, as end-man in a minstrel show, in black-face.

He is famous for the popularizing of "Mammy" in song and story and in this picture he has given the title to Mammy and has brought her into being for the first time, in a role exquisitely played by Louise Dresser.

Jolson's stage confidences and stories are at their readiest and the play is packed full of songs and situations built just for

WHAT IS THIS THING CALLED WINTER?

According to Webster (and of course, you've all heard of Webster; he's the fellow who wrote a very large book) winter is the season of the year which extends from the end of autumn to the beginning of spring.

That, for those who can take their definitions or leave them alone, is simple enough.

But we happened to mention it to Homer Handy (and of course, you've heard of Homer; he's the local boy who made good in the hinting game).

"That," remarked Homer, "is a lot of horse-radish. Anybody but a silly would know that winter is the time of year when it's cold, and chills and fever work overtime. It's the time of year when everybody is wishing for good old summer weather, and practically the only folks who get it are those who enjoy the moist, healthful air—not of Palm Beach, although that has its points—the balmy, breathable air, the genuine, honest-to-goodness, dyed-in-the-wool June warmth furnished only by the Estate Heatrola. And here's a hint..."

As Homer's hint comes later here is where we shoved him into the back room. Gently, however, for there is much to Homer's remarks. Summed up, Homer has the idea that winter is the time of year when one enjoys his or her Heatrola. That's common sense, if you ask us. And if you are not looking forward to the cold months with any appreciable amount of pleasant anticipation, let's get together. Just think of the comfort you'll have. Then come in, and we'll show you how easily you can have it.

By gosh, here it is, almost Christmas-time and it's not a word about your buying Christmas gifts at our store. A bit early, perhaps, for the annual Yuletide display, but remember that when you do play Santa Claus, here is where you'll find the things that Dad, Mother, Sister and Brother like.

Experience has taught us that there isn't any bargain that can beat good quality. That's why a well-known name is usually found on every item in our store. Most folks want the best, and we want them to have the best. Such business means satisfied customers. Which is the kind of business that satisfies us.

W. B. Allen, Williamsport, for example, is more than satisfied with his new Estate Heatrola. Of course, that's only natural, when you stop to consider that this heater indulges in that old Estate custom of assuring you "June warmth" throughout the winter in every room of the house—upstairs and down. Mr. Allen told us last week that even the neighbors were complaining of the heat that came from his home.

Some people don't know what they want until they find they can't get it.

The chances are, however, they can get it here. If not, we'll try our best to get it for them.

Could this be Carl Toensmeier? College boy writing home: "How do you spell financially?"

His friend: "F-i-n-a-n-c-i-a-l-l-y and there are two R's in embargo."

HOMER HANDY'S HINT

rassed."

Quaker Rugs and Quaker Linoleums in all the new patterns. Prices at floor level.

The recent cold spell caused John Myers, Walter Eppard, C. H. Grubb and Sam Burns to agree with us that the sooner an Estate Heatrola is in the living room, the better.

Buck: "Can you give me a definition of an orator?"

Private: "Sure. He's the fellow who's always ready to lay down your life for his country."

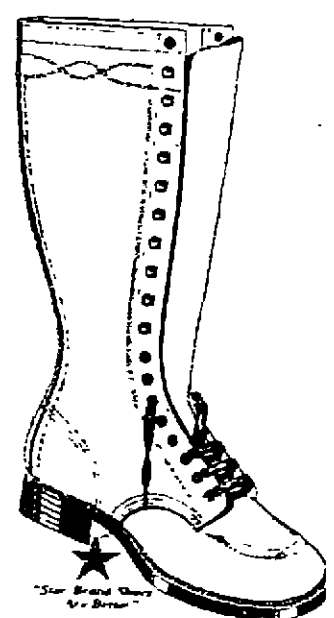

Well, the 1930 Pumpkin Show is over. And wasn't it a dandy in spite of the drought? Everyting was up to par, or over, and everyone enjoyed the entertainment. While it was true that the weather could have been a little more moderate, yet it was not too cold for folks to come and enjoy themselves. And our visitors came from miles around. More than once, we'd talk a leg off a visitor about an Estate Heatrola, or gas range, or Pyrofax Gas, or a Kelvinator (everyone wanted to see that new Yukon model at $159.50), and when we asked them where they lived, they'd say "Springfield," "Somerset," "Columbus," "Chillicothe," or some other far distant sea-port.

Mrs. Ralph White, New Holland, was in our booth last week and told us that that PYROFAX GAS TANK was still working. For the past six months this tank was furnished for her Estate Gas Range. A tank of this gas costs $14.00. So, Mrs. White's gas bill has been about $2.00 per month for cooking and baking. You folks that live beyond gas mains should look into this convenient method of cooking and baking.
